1. Competition venue ICFWC18

Sort Town Council, the organizers of this year's ICF Canoe Freestyle World Cups, is working hard making final preparations in order to welcome athletes from around the World.

Athletes are already training on the competition feature, as well as soaking up the unique atmosphere that this town has to offer.

The winter of 2017/18 saw record snow falls in Pyrenees. This, combined with heavy rain in spring has left river levels higher than usual for this time of year. Water levels are now dropping and we hope to have them at around 45-55 cumecs for the competition.

This is a similar level to that competed on at the World Cup in 2014. Apart from some minor movements on the riverbed, the feature remains unchanged from 2014 and its basic characteristics should be comparable. Once the ideal level has been reached it should be maintained for the duration of the event.

However, this is a natural river and as with all natural rivers fluctuations can occur.

If we have particularly heavy rain in the week leading up to the event the river may not be at optimal levels for the competition.

If, in the unlikely event that this should occur, we will consult as widely as possible, before making a decision as to whether to hold the event at a level that is less than ideal, or as a last resort, cancel the event.

Any final decision will be made as close as possible to the start of the event in order to maximize the chances of the event going ahead.

All athletes will be kept fully informed of any updates regarding this situation.
